Occupation Woes

By J. M. ROBERTS, JR.

AP Foreign Affairs Analyst

REPORTS of resistance to occupation authority in Germany now are joined by similar reports from Japan, although the situation there does not seem to have developed to the same danger level.

Whereas in Germany the outbursts have been described as approaching organized resistance, in Japan the movement is attributed to a few individuals with small followings.

Authorities express concern, however, lest trouble increase as Japanese soldiers from the Asiatic mainland, undefeated in the field, are repatriated.

It is not so amazing that such troubles develop as that they have been delayed so long. MacArthur's safety precautions in the first days of occupation evidenced doubt that even Hirohito's command would result in as complete an end to wartime fanaticism as has been in evidence so far. Smiling Japanese, anxious to accept war blame, to reveal the hideouts of their wealth and to discuss their military weaknesses; affable Germans stolidly, even happily carrying out the orders of their conquerors, have presented anomalies after the sort of war just ended. Such supine acceptance creates its own problems in setting up stern controls, and leaves an uneasy feeling that more is going on than meets the eye.

This "feather pillow" situation may be partly responsible for the new troubles, especially in Germany. It was one reason for the "non-fraternization" ban in the beginning. It caused the ban's failure, and now fraternization is solidifying German hatred of the occupation forces. The reports served to emphasize the importance of proper American conduct in occupied areas. Dispatches from Germany have been full of references to American participation in black market operations, and especially to American "fraternization" with German women.

It is obvious no army can do a complete job of policing the morals of its members. But when a New York Times correspondent can write from Germany that much hatred derives from former German soldiers returning home to find their wives and sweethearts living with American officers as well as enlisted men, it would appear there is a great deal of laxity. The proximity of certain types of soldiers are international and you might say, internationally understood. But there still are codes governing officers, and the one referring to unbecoming conduct covers a great deal of territory.

EVIDENCE MOUNTS AGAINST JAPAN'S GEN. YAMASHITA

By DEAN SCHIEDER

MANILA, Nov. 3.—The erstwhile "Tiger of Malaya," Lt. Gen. Tomoyuki Yamashita, reduced to the status of the jackal of the Philippines by the end of the war, today was linked for the first time directly with the brutalities of the barbarous troops he commanded.

A Japanese interpreter who served with the brutal Kempeitai military police and the Filipino secretary of a known collaborator with the enemy both testified to the fallen Tiger's knowledge of the brutalities of the Japanese soldiers in a stormy session of Yamashita's trial as a war criminal.

Narciso Lapus, former secretary to the exiled political General Artemio Ricarte, testified that in conversations with Ricarte, Yamashita affirmed his order to "wipe out all Filipinos."

Tell of Slaughter

Ricarte returned from exile to the Philippines in 1941 in the role of a liaison and special envoy from Japanese Premier Hideki Tojo to effect the friendship and prepare the islands for independence under the Japanese rule.

Lapus testified that Ricarte contacted Yamashita at least four times and pleaded with him to spare the Philippine people from mass slayings. But, Lapus asserted, Yamashita was firm in his order to the troops to "wipe out all Filipinos, as they are no longer our friends."

Fernin Miyasaki, former interpreter at the Japanese military police headquarters, told the U. S. Military commission hearing Yamashita commended his club-wielding police for their "fine work" in the suppression and arrest of Filipino guerrillas in Manila.

A 17-year-old Filipino related how blood-mad Japanese shot or beheaded more than 400 civilians in Manila Feb. 10, while American liberating troops were forcing the invaders into a last stand in the city.

"You ought to be hanged and cut into little pieces," screamed Julieta Milanes, pointing to Yamashita, who sat unmoved.

MEETING ON LABOR SET TO OPEN MONDAY

Charge Small Union Representatives Are Being Excluded

(By Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, Nov. 3.—With the labor-management peace conference only two days away one of the nation's top labor leaders heaped fresh coals on the wage-price fire today.

And a lesser-known leader, protesting the independent unions are being ignored at the conference, threatened that the big labor chiefs who attend it Monday would have to walk through picket lines.

Walter P. Reuther, president of the CIO Auto Workers who are seeking a 30 per cent wage increase, said it is a "national tragedy" that the conference has omitted from its program the "key question" of wages and prices and also asserted he would ask for a court injunction to prevent OPA from granting any "unwarranted increases" in new car prices over 1942 levels.

Await OPA Announcement

OPA is expected to announce the new car prices within a few days. Reuther asserted yesterday that the auto industry was "pressuring OPA" to get "unnecessary price increases."

Chairman Edward G. Wilms of the independent unions of New Jersey protested at Paterson, N. J., that non-affiliated labor organizations had been given the "brush-off" in the planning of the labor-management meeting.

He said:

"John L. Lewis, Philip Murray, William Green and other labor leaders will have to sneak in the back door or cross the picket line in order to be present at the conference in Washington."

"Representatives of more than a half million independent union workers from eastern states whose petitions to participate in the conference have not been considered, will be on the picket line Monday."

"If President Truman and Mr. Schweikert want labor harmony, it will be necessary for them to remember that working people not affiliated with the AFL or CIO must be represented at the conference."

It is understood that Philip Murray, CIO president, will try to place the wage-price problem on the conference program.

But it cannot be included unless industry is willing. A U. S. Chamber of Commerce spokesman said management generally would resist any effort to bring up the question.

He said the conference should devote itself to "procedures, not issues."

2,124 Examined In Chest X-Ray Clinic

Through funds raised by the sale of Christmas seals 2,124 persons were X-rayed in a chest survey throughout the county High schools and the Crescent Machine Co. in Leetonia this week. Miss Lillian Schroeder, County Public Health League secretary, announced today.

Salem High students—242 of them—received the "checkup" Monday. Other school pupils included Leetonia, 311; East Palestine, 254; Wellsville, 291, and East Liverpool, 916.

The survey at Crescent Machine included 150 persons in a special survey requested by employees there. Reports on the tests will be available in about two weeks.

The pictures were taken by the National X-ray service.

Vote On $206,000 Bond Issue In United School District

Voters in the United School district, which includes the former Butler, Hanover and Kensington school districts, will decide the fate of a proposed $206,000 bond issue for the construction of a new grade and high school building when they go to the polls Tuesday.

The proposed building would be located on the Paul Palmer farm, three-fourths of a mile south of New Garden.

The high school would contain a large farm shop for the teaching of a complete agricultural program, domestic arts department, music room, commercial arts room, science rooms, standard classrooms and library and study hall.

The new building also would provide a combination auditorium-gymnasium, cafeteria, stage with dressing rooms, shower and locker rooms for boys and girls, administrative office, health clinic and a bus-loading platform.

Eight standard and four special classrooms would be provided for the grade school unit.

At present the district has 820 grade and high school students and it is costing an average of $28,000 a year for tuition and transportation to send the latter to seven high schools outside the district.

The district has no high school and the board of education points out that grade schools are overcrowded, unsanitary and in poor condition.

The board, which is urging voters to support the bond issue, is composed of President John J. Batzli, Vice President C. P. Kelton, E. F. Sanor, F. G. Baker, D. H. Mayhew and Clerk H. C. Dorr.

Archbishop Schrembs Dies In Cleveland; Rites Friday

(By Associated Press)

CLEVELAND, Nov. 3.—The spiritual leader of more than 400,000 northern Ohio Catholics for nearly a quarter of a century is dead.

Archbishop Joseph Schrembs, onetime Ratisbon, Bavaria, choir boy who rose to be fifth bishop of Cleveland, died yesterday afternoon after an illness of more than four years. He was 79.

The body of the prelate, who formerly served as first bishop of Toledo and auxiliary bishop of Grand Rapids (Mich.), will be buried Friday in the crypt beneath the main altar of St. John cathedral, beside his four predecessors.

Interment will follow a solemn pontifical requiem mass celebrated by Bishop Edward F. Hoban, the archbishop's successor as head of the diocese. Archbishop John T. McNicholas of Cincinnati will preach the sermon. Bishops Michael J. Ready of Columbus, Karl B. Altar of Toledo and James A. McFadden of Youngstown will be among the hierarchy participating in the rites.

Requiem masses for the repose of the soul of the archbishop will be celebrated in all the churches and chapels of the diocese next week.

Came To U. S. When a Boy

The future archbishop came to this country at the age of 11 to study for the priesthood. He attended St. Vincent college at Beatty, Pa., and grand seminary and Laval university, Montreal, Quebec.

In 1889, he was ordained a priest in the cathedral at Grand Rapids. He served as pastor in West Bay City and Grand Rapids, Mich., and in 1911 was appointed auxiliary bishop of the Grand Rapids diocese. Later the same year he was named Bishop of Toledo. He was appointed Bishop of Cleveland in 1921.

Seventeen and a half years later, Pope Pius XII honored Bishop Schrembs by raising him to the rank of archbishop "in recognition of his outstanding merits."

The honor was bestowed on him June 29, 1939, at ceremonies observing the 50th anniversary of his ordination as a priest.

As head of the Cleveland diocese, Archbishop Schrembs was known as "the builder" because of the many construction works he sponsored. A bitter foe of intolerance, he took keen interest in civic affairs and entered political discussions when he felt moral issues were at stake.

Coadjutor Bishop Hoban Is Elevated To Direct Diocese

CLEVELAND, Nov. 3.—The son of a Chicago shoemaker today was sixth bishop of Cleveland.

Coadjutor Bishop Edward Francis Hoban became ordinary of the diocese immediately on the death of Archbishop Joseph Schrembs yesterday, having been given right of automatic succession when installed as coadjutor bishop Jan. 21, 1943.

Bishop Hoban was born in Chicago in 1887, the son of William and Bridget (O'Malley) Hoban. His father was a shoemaker—and a very good shoemaker, the bishop has declared.

He studied at St. Ignace college, Chicago, and St. Mary seminary, Baltimore. He was ordained in Chicago by the late Archbishop James Edward Quigley in 1903.

The future bishop served as assistant pastor of St. James church, Chicago, and as a teacher in Quigley preparatory school. He was then sent to the Gregorian university in Rome for graduate study, receiving the degree of doctor of philosophy and doctor of theology.

On his return to Chicago, Father Hoban was made assistant chancellor of the archdiocese of Chicago. In 1909 he was named chancellor and in 1921 vicar general.

Later in 1921, Pope Pius XI named Hoban titular bishop of Colonia and auxiliary bishop of Chicago. Seven years later he was appointed bishop of Rockford (Ill.).

On Nov. 17, 1942, Archbishop Amelio Giovanni Ciconnani, apostolic delegate to the United States, announced Bishop Hoban's appointment as coadjutor bishop of Cleveland and titular bishop of Lystra.

Communists Claim U. S. Interferes In Guise Of Policeman

BULLETIN

CHUNGKING, Nov. 3.—The Communist headquarters spokesman here tonight countered a Central government peace proposal with the announcement that when "all Kuomintang troops throughout the country are asked to stop fighting, the Communists will do likewise."

The nationalist proposal was designed to bring an immediate cessation of hostilities, K. C. Wu, information minister, said in announcing earlier that the offer had been made. He said it contained four "concrete points" but did not name them.

Tasks Varied In Congress

(By Associated Press)

CHUNGKING, Nov. 3.—The Central government has made four concrete proposals to the Communists designed to immediately halt hostilities in North China, K. C. Wu, minister of information, reported today.

Reply on the proposals, which were not disclosed, is being awaited from the Yen'an Communist headquarters, Wu said.

Meanwhile, Communist charges that the United States is meddling "in the guise of a policeman" in China's internal affairs were publicized amidst reports of the first large scale fighting between Chinese Reds and Central government troops.

The Communist New China Daily news took issue with Lt. Gen. Albert Wedemeyer, commanding American forces in China General Wedemeyer said recently the mission of his troops in assisting the central government to take over from the Japanese does not constitute direct action against the Reds.

"Active Interference"

New China Daily News called it "active interference" and mentioned the possibility of U. S. forces becoming "involved in armed conflict" if they remain.

Yenan and Chungking communist sources made the unsubstantiated charge that American reconnaissance preceded the capture by government troops of a Communist-occupied town within 10 miles of Peiping.

The same sources, in reporting China's new Sixth army was in action against the Reds along the rail line between Tientsin and Pukow, said these were government soldiers both trained and equipped by the United States while in North Burma.

Growing battles for railroads leading toward North China and Manchuria were reported even as the government pressed the unfinished job of disarming thousands of Japanese.

The Communists estimated 800,000 government troops are massing for an offensive against the Reds, with Communist groups in western Honan and eastern Hopei provinces already surrounded.

Advice From 'A Best Friend'

It's uncertain what effect Secretary of State Byrnes' statement on Russia's good neighbor orbit has on our own foreign policy, but clearly it was delivered in the voice of experience.

The concept of a sphere of influence that crystallized in the Monroe Doctrine and was brought up to date by the American good neighbor policy in recent years has been part and parcel of our thinking for 125 years. The Monroe Doctrine merely says in effect that the United States assumes the right to look after its hemispheric security when threatened by interference from abroad. Secretary Byrnes, on the other hand, says in effect that as far as the United States is concerned Russia has the same right in eastern Europe.

But he adds a warning that the United States has learned it cannot have security by any regional plan, nor even regional security without a good neighbor attitude. Strong-arming and dollar diplomacy backfired by building distrust. Russia will be well advised to begin at the conclusion the United States has reached—that friendship in a nation's own orbit must be earned and cannot be compelled. Speaking as a "best friend" telling the Russians what they apparently need to know, the United States is warning them not to make the mistakes it made because if they do this government cannot subscribe to the Monroe Doctrine idea for eastern Europe.

At that point, the complications begin. What is eastern Europe and how does it differ from Asia? What does the United States intend to do about possible failure to adopt Mr. Byrnes' advice about good neighborliness? What does his statement mean to Great Britain, the only nation with an obvious interest in what happens in eastern Europe? What becomes of British security in the Mediterranean if Russia construes a good neighbor policy to mean the inclusion of Greece and Turkey? What do Russia's potential good neighbors think of the idea?

In other words, Mr. Byrnes has raised a lot of questions without answers. That has seemed lately to be the principal effect of all foreign policy discussions and statements. International harmony is harder to work out than all of us wanted to believe when it looked as though everything would fall into place after V-E and V-J days.

Organized Science

Bernard M. Baruch has added his influence to the push for a national program of scientific research. Mr. Baruch believes it might prevent wars if used properly in connection with other security measures in a program of permanent preparedness.

The latest incentive for interest in scientific research as a national project is development of the atomic bomb, the end-product of perhaps the greatest scientific experiment in history. But the idea is as old as government—and as tricky.

Except for experiments in agriculture, most organized science has been preoccupied with weapons—and even agricultural experiments had a vital bearing on military security. In the United States, after World War I, the idea drew much favorable attention, but languished as congressional attention turned to the problems of peace.

Its merit in relation to military security is beyond debate, yet that very aspect of a national project of scientific research makes it most debatable when popular interest in military security declines, as it always does after wars. If science is to become a recognized government project, as public health and education already are, its objectives need to be wider than development of weapons. Military security, after all, is the sum of a nation's strength.

Everything that can be discovered to make American civilization more useful, to lift health and living standards, to increase efficiency and to broaden the margin of men's satisfaction with the results of their efforts contributes to the potential strength of the nation in war. Knowledge about atomic energy, for example, is infinitely more important as a means of doing the world's work than it is as a military weapon.

Scientific research holds great promise. It is entitled to whatever public support scientists need to give their intelligence and curiosity a full chance to be useful. But it would be tragic to confine their work to development of weapons—as tragic as it would be to restrict the offices of public health and education. It would invite a blight on public and congressional confidence.

Each Man Decides For Himself

The latest challenge to our national ability to recover from the shock of war is the Victory Loan drive that will run until Dec. 8.

In the honest judgment of most experts, it will take a miracle to sell War Bonds to potential individual purchasers at this time. The end of the war has brought a psychological slump.

It is reasoned that the same limp morale and short-sightedness that are stalling our return to peacetime production will crop out again in apathy to appeals for further investment of their war boom savings in government securities.

This is a sad commentary on the people's ability to comprehend their responsibilities as participants in popular government. It amounts to saying that the American public lacks ability to think through the problem of its own destiny.

But there can be no very earnest argument on the point, because the fact is that the American public—meaning each one of us—is being challenged in an extremely grim way these days to prove we are worthy of the great destiny that is ours for the taking.

The people ultimately must make the decision whether to walk the path of duty, which is stony and steep, or whether to stick to the path of convenience. For the most part, America is sticking to convenience. With the single exception of a presidential recommendation for universal military training, which Congress is expected to vote down in a bid for popularity at the polls next year, the United States has been taking sabbatical leave from its war-won responsibilities as the world's strongest and most respected popular government. We have been acting as if World War II had hit the jack-pot on the international slot machine and all we had to do was scramble for the nickels. We have forgotten, with the eager connivance of politicians who want us to forget, where the money came from and that most of it must be paid back. The late Franklin D. Roosevelt said once in a financially expansive mood, we owe it to ourselves, but the tough part is that we owe more than we can raise short of a couple generations of booming prosperity.

The argument for helping to keep things on an even keel by investing in government bonds is still the same—and still good. The government needs the spending power; the people need the deferred buying power represented by an interest-bearing investment. Buying a bond in the Victory Loan drive is something each man decides for himself. If nine out of 10 decisions are right, the drive will reach its total—11 billion dollars for the nation, $1,500,000 for Salem.

The Stars Say

For Sunday, November 4.

SUNDAY'S horoscope holds augury of routine Sabbath relaxations and rituals, with little of encouragement in any other direction. There are possibilities of clashes or disagreements with superiors, employers as well as with the public and friends or companions, unless close guard be kept on tongue and temper. Cultivate the virtue of amiability.

Those whose birthday it is may not enjoy much success or progress during the year unless they decide to shun all sorts of loose or aggravating language, as such might alienate not only friends and comrades but employers, superiors and as well those in public or community authority. By circumspect conduct and clever strategies, there might be moderate success.

A child born on this day will be disposed to wrangle and haggle with its elders, superiors and employers to its detriment. By guarded language and secret agreements or strategies there is fair promise.

For Monday, November 5.

MONDAY'S astrological forecast is for a day of moderate progress and contentment in customary channels, but the mind is keyed to a brilliant notion, idea or project which might lead to spectacular success and productiveness if properly handled. Attention to details, trivial items and revolutionary or novel techniques might bring forth a startling discovery or innovation.

Those whose birthday it is, while moving along in accustomed grooves, private and business, in routine satisfaction and progress, yet are stimulated by an original idea or plan of more than ordinary scope and vision. The mind is attuned to great creative power, with ingenuity and originality, but the conversion of such illumination into constructive channels, with lucrative and worthwhile denouements, demands a keen analysis of underlying principles, with practical development of new techniques and ways of promoting a novelty or revolutionary project. Take time to profoundly consider.

A child born on this day may have a mentality of brilliant prospects with inventive and creative ability outside of the ordinary. Its capacity for handling details and trivia will decide its success.

GUARDING YOUR HEALTH

Sinus Infections

By HERMAN N. BUNDESEN, M.D.

THE discovery of penicillin and the sulfonamide drugs has altered the treatment of many diseases, including infections of the nasal sinuses. Sinuses are air spaces in the bones of the face which are connected with the nose by narrow passages.

According to Doctor Edward J. Whalen of Hartford, Connecticut, infection of the nasal sinuses may be in a serious condition, especially in young people. Such an infection is likely to return year after year, or more often, and may be responsible for repeated or prolonged periods of disability.

Stop Treatment

Unfortunately, many persons with acute infections in the sinuses stop treatment as soon as their symptoms are relieved—often before the signs of infection have completely cleared up. Such patients, in the opinion of Doctor Whalen, are almost certain to have recurrences of the infection.

Hence, when an acute infection of the nasal sinuses occurs, prompt, thorough treatment should be carried out until a complete cure is obtained, if possible.

The treatment used for infection of the nasal sinuses includes the sulfonamide drugs in adequate doses, together with surgical measures when they are required. Operative treatment is unnecessary in most instances. On the other hand, not all infections of the nasal sinuses require treatment with the sulfonamide drugs.

Severe Reactions

It should be borne in mind that sulfonamide drugs may cause severe reactions in certain instances. Furthermore, a patient may become sensitive to them so that when they are used at a later date, reactions develop which may make the patient vitally ill.

Thus, in mild sinus infections, the doctor often believes that treatment of other types may serve to relieve the condition, avoiding the use of sulfonamides.

In recent times, in some cases, certain of the sulfonamide preparations have been put directly into the sinuses. Many physicians do not favor this form of treatment as yet since they believe that the drugs are ineffective when employed in this way. However, when given by mouth, the sulfonamide drugs may serve to overcome the infection and clear up fever, pain, and other symptoms. When employed, they should be given early in order to obtain the most beneficial effect.

Chronic Infections

When chronic infections of the sinuses develop, operative treatment often is required. In such cases, also, the sulfonamide drugs may be used to supplement the surgical treatment.

There are various nose drops which also may be employed under the direction of the physician, to relieve the symptoms of sinus infections. These nose drops contain drugs, such as ephedrine or ephedrine, which shrink the lining membranes of the nose and thus aid in allowing the infected material to drain out of the sinuses. Employment of a suction pump to speed up the drainage may also be of value in some instances.

Whenever possible, a nose and throat specialist should be consulted in cases of sinus disorders.

IS THIS MAN WORTH RECONVERTING?

Today he is still a soldier. Yesterday he was a kid in school. What will he be tomorrow? That depends on us, the folks back home. He fought "over there" and that is where he kept the fighting, right up to Victory Day. He has done his job.

Now he deserves a chance to finish his education. Our Victory Bonds will help him. The Government is willing to bet on him, when he goes into business, and lend him some money. Our Victory Bonds will help finance the loan. He dug a foxhole in the dirt and lived in it. Now it is our turn to dig down, and show him by our Victory Bond purchases that we want him to have a chance to reconvert for peace.

A Victory Bond is the world's smartest investment.

Lewis Pledges Aid On Columbiana Postoffice

COLUMBIANA, Nov. 3.—Mayor K. T. Gormley is in receipt of a letter from Congressman Earl R. Lewis, who says the initial steps are being taken to have a postoffice building for Columbiana listed among the projects for immediate construction.

The House committee on public buildings and grounds is now considering the list to see that it complies with the law, after which the appropriations committee will be asked to make specific appropriations.

Lewis says he has already urged the chairman of the public buildings and grounds committee to include Columbiana in the authorized list.

Donald Gormley, a student in Ohio State university, spent a couple of days this week at the home of his parents, Mayor and Mrs. K. T. Gormley.

Workmen are filling in the cellar of the former Devers property on W. Park ave. from which the house was recently moved to make way for the opening of Vine st. north from W. Park ave. to W. Salem st. It will be allowed to settle until spring, when that section of street and others in the allotment between Park ave. and Salem st. will be improved with black top.

Powerful Pottery City Club Swamps Salem Easily 32 to 0

Barrettmens Handed Worst Defeat Of Year In Visit To East Liverpool's Field

Things went about as expected at East Liverpool last night as the obviously superior Potters, tutored by Coach Don Ogden, romped easily over Ben Barrett's Salem Quakers 32-0 before a crowd of 5,703 fans at Patterson field.

Barrett's charges were in the ball game through the first quarter and performed far above pre-game expectations, but the mighty Potters, employing their 24-pound-per-man advantage with pulverizing power, walked merrily through the balance of the ball game and literally scored at will.

The victory for the East Liverpool men was the most one-sided in point difference ever posted in the 31 years of battling between the two outfits. Higher scores have been tallied in clashes, but it has never before been so lop-sided.

A smooth-working set of backs—the best Salem has come up against this season—clicked off the gains with consistency and the winners ended up the game with a tremendous yards-gained advantage.

Salem was stopped cold through the mass of humanity in the Potter forward wall. Not until the final three minutes of the game did the Quakers manage a first down, when they rallied somewhat and added two more before the contest closed.

Score Twice In Second
East Liverpool scored twice in the second frame, once in the third and twice again in the final. It could have been worse, but second and third stringers weakened the East Liverpool line towards the close of the third and until the final score, which was posted by the Potters' starting lineup.

East Liverpool completed four of 14 passes for 55 yards' gain while the Quakers failed to connect in seven attempts, two of which East Liverpool intercepted.
Standouts for the winners were Henry Pack, 170-pound Negro Senior and fullback, who can drive from the T-formation with ferocious results. Chuck Means, a 160-pound Senior quarterback, was far from a slouch at his assignment, and the performance of Chuck Spencer, 175 pounds of Negro fullback, was more than praiseworthy.

Potters Shine
Rudy Trbovich, Tommy Bell at tackle and guard on the left side of the Potter line, were hard to pass. Veteran Dick O'Hanlon, 215-pound right guard who looks like college material, was a consistent stopper of Salem attempts through the line. Salem's backs were ineffective through the line as the holes could not be opened. Danny Smith was the standout in the backfield defensively and turned in a half-dozen good boots from the quarterback spot, averaging 30 yards per try.
East Liverpool's sixth win in eight games, including two ties, was only marred by the exceptional show-up by Salem's one-man line—183-pound Louis Juliano.
The big tackle got nearly half of Salem's tackles and was far too crafty most of the time to be faked off by the Potter T. His work drew continuous applause from the press row and branded him as one of the district's best.

Start Early
The Potters scored early in the second frame after Salem had muffed a chance from the East Liverpool 20 when Don Chappell recovered Bob Ward's fumble.
Spencer returned a Salem punt to the Quaker 34 late in the first and in four line plays the oval went over with Pack going off right tackle. He plunged for the point.
Pack went over again midway in the second after a kick return had opened the threat on the Salem 39. He made it after nine line plays. Trbovich's kick was wide and it was 13-0.
The third touchdown was scored from a drive which originated on the Quaker 22 when Howard Herrington's fumble was recovered by Chuck Means.

Scores Around End
With fourth down and three to go for the score, Spencer started his own left end and went over standing up. It took just nine plays after the fumble to tally. Pack again went over for the extra, crashing left tackle, making it 20-0.
Six plays after Don Jackson had intercepted Walt Ehrhart's pass on the Salem 29 and returned to the 22, Dan Wolfe went over right tackle from the one to score for the Potters again. Big, 225-pound Trbovich tried the kick again, but it was wide.
Trailing 26-0, Salem tried four plays after the kickoff but couldn't move against the second-string line.

Ward Goes 19
Smith's good kick to Chink Sullivan on the Salem 40 was brought back on a nice run to the Quaker 29. The Potters drove to the 13, where the threat ended and Salem took over.
Bland, Hess, Dalley, Chmura, Houlette and Buble who are seniors played their last game.

MASSILLON TIES LATIN 6-6; THRILL 55,000 GRID FANS

Largest Crowd Ever to See Regularly Scheduled Game In Ohio

BY HAROLD HARRISON
Associated Press Sports Writer
The Cleveland Cathedral Latin High school football bubble burst last night under the claws of Massillon's Tigers, who long have been a power on Ohio High school gridirons.

It was just a year ago that Latin went through 10 straight games without a defeat and generally was recognized as the mythical state champs. Six straight victories had been recorded this year until last night when before 55,000 fans, the largest crowd ever to see a regularly scheduled High school game in Ohio, the Latins were held to a 6 to 6 tie by Massillon.

By that tie Massillon become the deadlock "champions" of the state. The Tigers have four draws and four victories in eight games.

A fumble cost Massillon a possible touchdown in the first period but the Tigers went ahead to stay until Jerry Beckrest went over from the three-yard line in the fourth period. Latin was on Massillon's two-yard line when the gun ended the tilt.

Manfield Loses
The other big game of the night ended just about as everyone expected. Toledo Waite 27 and Mansfield 12.

That triumph kept Waite in the unbeaten and untied class.

On the opposite side of the picture were Crookville and Tallmadge which suffered their first defeats of the season.
Crookville took a 27 to 12 beating from Philco which has been beaten only once in the last couple of years or so. Kent State whipped Tallmadge, 19 to 0.

Another among the big shots who kept going was Cincinnati Puerell which drubbed Cincinnati Withrow, 20 to 0.

Dayton Chaminade and Piqua were a couple of other unbeaten and untied teams which kept rolling last night. Chaminade was an easy 40 to 0 victor over Dayton Wilbur Wright and Piqua licked Dayton Fairmont, 18 to 7.

BY HAROLD HARRISON
COLUMBUS, Nov. 2.—A physical handicap has meant nothing to Ralph Pucci, hard-hitting fullback and place-kicker for the Canton McKinley High school football team.

This is Pucci's first year as a bulldog regular but he has more than made good despite an ailment which prevents "external motion" in his right arm. The lack of "external motion" means that he can turn his right arm only until the palm of his hand is perpendicular.

Admittedly, it's a handicap in catching passes and sometimes in holding the ball on smashes into the line but his coach Bud Berrick describes him as a "great" player and predicts a bright collegiate future.

Pucci, standing five feet seven inches tall and weighing 170 pounds, has scored seven touchdowns for McKinley this fall and has kicked 13 of 21 extra point attempts.

His kicking success is the result of long hours of practice at a field near his home where a high wire fence serves as the imaginary goal post cross-bar. For several years he has practiced the year around.

His biggest thrill, he says, was kicking the extra point which gave McKinley a 7 to 7 tie with unbeaten Canton Lincoln this season.

"I don't remember kicking it," he says, "but once I heard the crowd roar and realized what that extra point meant to our team, I got cold chills."

ODDS AND ENDS—

Lest there be some confusion, the Ohio High School Athletic Association was no objection to Toledo Waite, playing one of the pair in the Cleveland Cathedral Latin-Massillon football game providing the game is played by Dec. 1 and provided the game is under the supervision of the schools themselves. . . . Who they can choose after the 6-6 tie is something else.

Rams To Clash With Giants In Pro Battle

(By Associated Press)
NEW YORK, Nov. 3.—Cleveland's powerful Rams tackle the New York Giants at the Polo grounds tomorrow in one of the top games of the National Professional Football league.

Bill Paschal, the loop's leading ground gainer in 1943 and 1944 will be back at his old stand in the Giant backfield for his first league game since the championship affair last December.

A private in the Army Air forces, the onetime Georgia Tech star has been playing with the Mitchell field eleven but signed to play for the Giants when the service outfit had an open date.

The Rams disclosed big Ralph Ruthstrom, first string fullback, would be ready for full duty against the Giants. He was injured in the Rams' victory over the Green Bay Packers Oct. 14.

Opportunities to buy to advantage are found daily in The News classified advertising columns.

Leontonia Has Scoring Fete Against Wellsville, Chalks Up 51-6 Victory For No. 7

Leontonia's football power was amply proven at Wellsville last night as the Bears went hog-wild on the down-river gridiron, rolled up 25 points in the first period and went on to win 51-6 over the hapless Bengals before 2,500 fans.

Coach Charlie Mather's squad uncorked loads of power and completely outclassed helpless Wellsville in a scoring feast which saw Larry Duco scamper into Bengal pay dirt four times and pass twice to Guy Beltempo and Sammy Stumpo, respectively, for two other six pointers.

The Bears rolled up a net gain through the line of 344 yards to a mere 90 for Wellsville. First downs were 16-7. Leontonia passed 12 times, completing five for 52 yards gain while the Bengals—not to be outdone through the air—popped nine good ones in 22 tries for 88 yards of ground.

Leontonia lost 60 yards on penalties with 25 chalked against Wellsville.

On the second offensive play of the game, Duco raced 50 yards to score. When Wellsville chose to kick off on the sloppy field, the Bears took over on the Bengal 42, drove down the field and Duco went off-tackle for 10 yards and touchdown No. 2. Both plunges for points were short.

Following a fumble recovery on the Bengal 20, Duco scored again on a 20-yard scamper and his pass to End Pat Mancuso was good for the extra.

Mancuso Scores
Mancuso cut himself a niche in Leontonia history when he stole the ball from Tom Wells on a kickoff return and dashed 42 yards over the goal line for the final score of the first frame.

Wellsville scored early in the second on a 37-yard pass, Zeke Moore to Jim Thrasher. The extra failed as Bud Kinners missed the crossbar.

Beltempo crashed over from the Wellsville five minutes later after a march of 37 yards by the Bears. Mancuso took Duco's pass for the extra and it was 32-6 by halftime.

A fumble recovery on the 35 set up the opening score of the second half, Duco making it count by going over on the fifth play. The plunge for the point failed.

Duco Flings 'Em
Duco then passed to Beltempo minutes later as the final began for a 25-yard gain and six more. He passed again, this time to Stumpo for eight yards and a score. Mancuso made it 51-6 by taking Stumpo's pass for the extra point.

Leontonia officially closes its season at home next week, taking on an underdog Carrollton crew under the lights Saturday.

The summary:

Bury Unidentified Woman

NAPOLEON, Nov. 3.—Potter's field here today claimed the body of an unidentified young woman found Sunday in Maumee river.

Scores of persons viewed the body and, although some believed they recognized her, complete identification was never established, according to Sheriff Fred Bartels.

The possibility that the slain woman was from Toledo was exploded today by a report from the Federal Bureau of Investigation in Washington that the fingerprints of the two did not tally, Bartels declared.

TINY BOAT YIELDED VITAL JAP PAPERS

By RUSSELL BRINES

TOKYO, Nov. 3.—A tiny Japanese lifeboat bobbed for two days off southeastern New Guinea under the watch of hidden Australian patrols in March, 1943, before currents beached it to give General MacArthur's military intelligence its biggest break of the war.

As the boat grounded on Goodenough Island outside Milne bay, the Aussies captured, without a struggle, the boat's occupant, a Japanese, who handed them a suitcase full of documents.

The Aussies had waited only for the man. They weren't expecting the documents, but they turned them over to American army translators.

Among the papers was a complete roster of all Japanese army officers and their units.

With the roster as a backbone, plus scraps of information from other sources, the American were able to pinpoint Japanese unit positions in the march northward toward Japan.

He said the committee must act as a whole, but that no information will be suppressed.

Amendments Offered
The senate continued debating the government reorganization bill yesterday, but didn't get very far. It got off on discussions of Pearl Harbor and the atomic bomb.

There are so many suggested amendments to the reorganization bill it's doubtful whether they can all be debated and voted on by the end of next week.

This bill would give President Truman a certain amount of power to streamline government agencies. The house has passed one version of the bill.

Neither senate nor house was meeting today.

CLEVELAND SCHOOL RACE RIOT HALTED

CLEVELAND, Nov. 3.—Police yesterday halted a threatened riot among 600 white and Negro boys near the Thomas A. Edison school but not before a Junior High school youth and a police detective were injured.

Police Lt. George B. Smythe said the disturbance had its inception a week ago when Negro students at the John Hay High school expressed resentment over white pupils putting their feet on their seats.

Yesterday, Smythe said, Detective John Ungravy suffered a gash on his head when he attempted to take away a 17-year-old leader of the John Hay episode who appeared at the Edison school. A few minutes later more than a score of policemen were called into action to rescue a 15-year-old boy who was beaten by the Negro group, Smythe said.
